

Hydro CEO and Founder, George Harris, Elected As President of the Hydraulic Institute

To read the Pumps & Systems online article, Click Here.

Hydro is very pleased to announce that our CEO and Founder, George Harris, has been elected by the Board of the Hydraulic Institute to serve as President.

The Institute, which was formed in 1917, plays a leading role in the development of pump standards that are used worldwide as well as playing key roles in pump education and providing important tools for pump users in many industries. HI is a well-respected forum for technical collaboration and the exchange of industry information among pump manufacturers throughout world.

Major pump manufacturers including FlowServe, Sulzer, KSB and others are HI members. It is therefore a great honor for Hydro—not only to have been included on the board of this important industry organization, but to also have our CEO selected for a leadership role.

Following the announcement at the recent HI annual meeting, George responded, “I am honored to be asked to serve the Institute at a very exciting and challenging time in its history. I look forward to working closely with my colleagues throughout the industry on important initiatives such as training, energy efficiency and expanding global relationships.”